Short description:

The second CENTRE meeting was held in Die (France) from the 22th to 24th of January 2016, during the XIV edition of the "Rencontres Ecologie au Quotidien".

The organization of the meeting during the well-known Festival gave a strong dissemination to the project not only to the local audience (citizens, volunteers, policy-makers etc...) but also to a huge number of participants/volunteers coming from different part of France and Europe.

The CENTRE participants received a warm hospitality from the people responsible for the Festival and volunteers of the Association Ecologie au Quotidien, partner of the CENTRE project, which accompanied the group of participants during the 3 days. All participants, hosted by families, had to possibility to relate directly to local citizens, discover traditional habits and local culture, history and environment.

The moments dedicated to lunch and dinner were a precious time to talk with families, volunteers, other participants and build interesting and fruitful ties with people.

The first day of meeting (22/01/16) included a visit to the town of Die and the "Ancient Monastery of Sainte Croix", founded in the 12th Century and located in the hilltop village. In the area of the Monastery, there are two hectares of green space including a botanic garden, a terraced garden and a wooden park with a great variety of trees. The old Monastery offers an ideal setting for trying delicious local specialities.

During the afternoon, it was possible to visit ecological companies and organic farmers, in particular the associative Bio Grocer's shop and Nateva. Nateva is located in the Vercors Regional Nature Reserve, at the heart of the Biovallée and in the prime organic production area in France (Drôme Department). The laboratory is well placed as a production facility for transforming wild crafted and cultivated organic medicinal and aromatic plants.

The Mayor of Die, Mr Gilbert Trémolet, and his staff, has concluded the first day with a meeting at the City Hall with a Welcoming ceremony.

The second day of meeting (23/01/16) took place in another part of the Biovallée: Vallée de la Drôme.

The programme included a presentation of the Biovallée association, the actors and elected representatives of the Biovallée in the Eco-Amphitheater "the Campus" of the Eco-Site of Eurre-26. In this occasion, all EU partners presented themselves and the project to the public audience.

The presentation has been followed by three visits to an eco-construction, an organic pole and an organic farm.

At the end of the day, CENTRE project and partner have been officially presented during the debate on the theme "To build together Innovative territories" at the Ecological Festival in Die. The debate was followed by the Opening ceremony of the 14th Festival of day-to-day ecology dedicated to the topic "Changer de vision" at the presence of Mayor, elected representatives, local actors and associations and public audience.

In the last and third day of meeting (24/01/16) the programme included a visit to Saillans, a village managed by the inhabitants with a participative democracy and a visit to the local Market and eco-host "La lune en bouche" in Saint Andéol en Quint.

The meeting ended after a final discussion between the CENTRE Partners on project's activities and future collaborations.

Location / Dates: The event took place in Petrosino (Italy ) from 29/05/2016 to 31/05/2016

Short description:

The third CENTRE meeting was held in Petrosino from 29th to 31st May 2016 named Symposium of Biological, a local event dedicated to the theme of biodistricts and most of all to the official signature of the first Sicilian biodistrict composed by 19 municipalities, called "Bioditretto – Terra degli Elimi" / "Biodistrict - Elimi's Land".

The Municipality of Petrosino, promoter and Lead Partner of this cooperation, organized an official event inviting all municipalities participating to the Biodistrict. The municipalities are: Buseto Palizzolo, Calatafimi Segesta, Campobello di Mazara, Castellamare del Golfo, Castalvetrano, Favignana, Gibellina, Marsala, Trapani, Vita, Paceco, Pantelleria, Partanna, Petrosino, Poggioreale, Salaparuta, Salemi, Santa Ninfa, Valderice.

The event opened on Sunday 29th May at the Multipurpose Center of Petrosino with a public conference called "Establishment of a Biodistrict in Sicily: opportunities and sustainable development". At the conference attended Gaspare Giacalone, Mayor of Petrosino, Antonello Cracolici, Regional Council for Agriculture, Antonio Ferrantino, President of the National Association Città del Bio, Alessandro Triantafyllidis, Manager of the Biodistrict AIAB, Giuseppe Sparta, Inspector Provincial Agriculture Department as well as Mayors of Biodistricts, Interparlamentar groups, representatives of Trade Associations and Organic Producers.

The afternoon was dedicated to the theme "Biodistrict of Europe : comparing experiences" where the European delegations presented their territories, experiences and best practices connected to the theme of biodistricts. After the presentations, the programme continued with a technical meeting regarding the project activities. In this occasion CENTRE partners shared the results of the CENTRE survey realised among the different organizations on a sample of 265 interviewed. The survey gathered Citizens' opinions regarding the EU citizenship in particular their belonging to the EU, EU policies, the participation to democratic life, opinions on biodistricts and consumption of organic foods, the importance to promote sustainable development and in which aspects.

The event continued on Monday 30th May with a tour of guided visits to organic farms, in particular participants had the opportunity to visit the oil farm "Titone" in Marausa, the wine company "Burgio Poggio Allegro" in Mazara del Vallo and crops and biological production " I Frutti del Sole" in Marsala.

Since 1936, in a strip of land between Trapani and Marsala, the Titone family produces a high quality oil, good and natural. The company was one of the first in Sicily to convert to organic farming. Since 1992, all stages of production are controlled and certified. Today Titone company produces two types of oil obtained from olives harvested by hand and pressed few hours later in the company mill. The Titone family managed to create an oil that has inside the millenary flavors of this part of Sicily, gaining recognition around the world.

"Burgio Poggio Allegro" is a wine company active from 1965, the family owner in one of the 7 most ancient families in Sicily. The last visit was organized at "I Frutti del Sole", an organic farm producer of fruits, vegetable and other products and promoter of a network of organic farms in Sicily. They export in an international market.

On the evening the second day event culminated with the proclamation of the first Bio-District with the signing of Articles of Association by all participating municipalities. The signing opened the doors to an active collaboration to create a sustainable economic and development plan for the protection of agriculture and landscape as a distinctive element of our identity.

All participating municipalities are now part of a circuit that will allow them to build a network of cultural, natural and productive resources, for the Protection of the environment and local productions and for the enhancement of the authenticity of food products, wine and natural beauty. The purpose is to plan the future of the country and citizens in an enlightened way, focusing on ecosustainability and on the protection of environmental, historical and cultural heritage.

The birth of biodistrict has been celebrated with a public concert of classical music called "Organic Spring" played by the Orchestra of the Conservatory "A. Scontrino" of Trapani, and directed by the choral director Paolo Morana.

The third and last day the Symposium of biological ended with a session dedicated to "Biodistrict - agriculture and sustainable development" with the participation of Luca Badalucco, Assessor of Agriculture the Municipality of Petrosino and the Mayor of Petrosino, Gaspare Giacalone.
